CLINICAL DEMONSTRATORS IN ANATOMY

The Centre for Biomedical Sciences Education is seeking to recruit clinical demonstrators to support the teaching of gross anatomy to undergraduate medical and dental students, within the Centre's dissecting room facilities.

These remunerated positions offer an opportunity for clinicians from any specialty currently working within Northern Ireland to help students understand the clinical relevance of their learning of anatomy. Individuals would be required on a sessional basis, commencing 27 September 2010.

Applications in the form of a covering letter expressing the candidate's reasons for applying for the post, together with a supporting CV, should be sent to:
